Drug Shortage Policy in the EU: How to deal with Regulatory Requirements?

Live Online Training on 09 June 2026

The EMA Guidance on Medicine Shortages and Availability Issues and the European Shortages Monitoring Platform (ESMP)

Highlights

- Challenges with the European Regulatory Strategy for Managing and Monitoring Drug Shortages
- New Requirements like Reporting, SMP, SPP, i-SPOC
- Collaborative Solutions for Drug Shortage Management and Preventive Measures

Programme

Objectives

This Live Online Training aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the regulatory framework governing drug shortages in the European Union (EU) and explore strategies for compliance with EU regulatory requirements. It will discuss solutions for managing and mitigating drug shortages effectively and offer insights from experts on navigating current and future challenges.

Background

Drug shortages have become a critical issue in the European healthcare sector, with a significant impact on patient care, treatment continuity and pharmaceutical supply chains. The causes of drug shortages are diverse and can be due to manufacturing disruptions, raw material supply constraints, increased demand and regulatory compliance issues. These shortages can lead to treatment delays, increased costs and potential risks to patient safety.

To address this challenge, regulatory authorities such as the European Medicines Agency (EMA) and national competent authorities have implemented a number of guidelines and requirements to ensure the continuity of medicines supply. The European Shortage Monitoring Platform (ESMP) became fully operational on 29th January 2025. All marketing authorization holders are now required to use only this platform to report data on shortages and availability of medicines. Measures include notification of shortages, preparation of a Shortage Prevention Plan (SPP) and Shortage Mitigation Plan (SMP), registration of an industry single point of contact (i-SPOC) and increased transparency in the pharmaceutical supply chain. However, despite these efforts, ensuring compliance remains a major challenge for pharmaceutical manufacturers, wholesalers and healthcare providers who must navigate complex regulations while maintaining business sustainability.

This course will cover key regulatory requirements, recent legislative developments and practical approaches to compliance. It will also examine how industry stakeholders can effectively manage and prevent shortages while minimizing the impact on healthcare systems and patient welfare.

Target Audience

This course is intended for all persons from EU with the following background:

- Regulatory Affairs Professionals
- Quality Assurance Managers
- Supply Chain and Procurement Specialists
- Pharmaceutical Manufacturers and Wholesalers
- Healthcare Providers and Hospital Pharmacists
- Legal and Compliance Experts in the Pharmaceutical Industry
